SAMPLE EDITION – NONE OF THIS IS YOUR MAIL

Three people are waiting on you, and one of them since Thursday

YOUR CHIEF OF STAFF

The oldest open thread is Sam Varga's, and it has been sitting five days. He asked one question — whether the pilot extends past March — and the answer is yours to give, not anybody else's. Everything else in the inbox this morning can wait until it does.

Two other threads are genuinely waiting. Mira Haddad needs the signed scope back before her Wednesday board; the draft is written and sitting below, and it goes nowhere until you say so. Ana Lindqvist wants a date, not a decision — thirty seconds, if you take it now.

This page is an example, printed from the same template a real edition uses, so you can see the shape of the thing before there is any of your own mail in it.

Waiting on you

- 1. Sam Varga — does the pilot run past March? 5 days
- 2. Mira Haddad — signed scope, before Wednesday. draft ready

- 3. Ana Lindqvist — wants a date for the review. 2 days

You promised

- 4. Numbers to Joy by Friday. due in 3 days
- 5. Intro to the Mercato team. overdue by 1

Quiet

Eleven threads moved and need nothing. Four newsletters filed, undrafted — bulk mail is never answered on your behalf.
